

Plans 1 and 2 Withdrawal of Retirement Contributions

Washington State Department of Retirement Systems

As a member of one of the Washington state retirement systems named below, you may withdraw your employee contributions plus interest if you leave employment. The Internal Revenue Service (IRS) calls these systems 401(a) defined benefit plans:

- Public Employees' Retirement System (PERS) Plans 1 and 2
- Teachers' Retirement System (TRS) Plans 1 and 2
- School Employees' Retirement System (SERS) Plan 2
- Law Enforcement Officers' and Fire Fighters' Retirement System (LEOFF) Plans 1 and 2
- Public Safety Employees' Retirement System (PSERS) Plan 2
- Washington State Patrol Retirement System (WSPRS) Plans 1 and 2

This publication is not intended for Plan 3 members. To learn more about Plan 3 withdrawal options, visit www.drs.wa.gov/plan3 or contact Empower Retirement at 888-327-5596.

When can I withdraw or roll over my retirement contributions?

You must be separated from your DRS-covered employer to withdraw or roll over your employee contributions plus interest. You can withdraw your contributions plus the interest they earned. Employer and state contributions remain in the trust fund and aren't eligible for withdrawal.

Are you vested?

Do you have five years of service credit in your plan? If so, you're vested! That means you have earned a lifetime monthly benefit at retirement age — unless you withdraw your contributions.

Questions answered inside

If I leave my job, what can I do with my contributions?

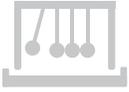

If I choose to roll over funds, what do I need to know?

If I return to public service, can I restore my withdrawn service credit?

I want to withdraw my contributions. What should I do now?

Points to consider before withdrawing

Taxes: The law requires DRS withhold 20% federal income tax on all tax-deferred contributions and interest paid directly to you. If you are younger than age 59½, you might also have to pay an additional 10% for withdrawing early when you file your taxes. The IRS can tell you whether this would apply to you. Taxes aren't withheld on qualified rollovers.

Service credit: When you withdraw your funds, you are also withdrawing your service credit. For vested members of all systems, this means forfeiting a monthly benefit at retirement age.

Employer notification: Before DRS can release your funds, your employer must report your separation date to us.

Waiting period: The IRS requires a 30-day waiting period before your funds are distributed to ensure you have time to review the options in this booklet. You can check the box on the Request for Refund of Retirement Contributions form to waive the 30-day waiting period.

Voluntary action: Withdrawing your funds is voluntary. You don't have to withdraw just because you are leaving an eligible position or terminating employment. If you choose to keep your money in your account, it will continue to earn interest.

Disability: If you ended employment because of an illness or disability, contact DRS before withdrawing. You might be eligible for a disability retirement.

Restoring withdrawn service credit: If you return to membership with a DRS-covered employer, you can recover your withdrawn service credit. Payment deadlines do apply. Contact DRS or review our publication Recovery of Withdrawn or Optional Service Credit for Plan 1 or Plan 2, available on the DRS website at www.drs.wa.gov.

If I leave my job, what can I do with my contributions?

You have four paths to choose from. If you choose to withdraw or roll over your contributions plus interest, you cancel all rights to service credit and any potential benefit you have earned in your retirement system.

Path 1

Leave your contributions in the plan

As a member, you don't have to withdraw your employee contributions when you leave your job. Regardless of your employment status, DRS currently pays 5.5% annual interest compounded quarterly on employee contributions that remain in the retirement fund. This rate could change. If you leave your contributions in the plan, you will keep your service credit and any right to a potential retirement benefit.

Path 2

Withdraw your money

You can withdraw your employee contributions plus interest any time you leave DRS-covered employment. If you do, the IRS requires a 20% withholding on all tax-deferred funds. If you are younger than age 59½, the IRS might require you to pay an additional 10% for withdrawing early. A withdrawal is treated as income for the year in which you receive payment. DRS will mail you Form 1099-R for your tax filing purposes. See page 4 for more federal tax information.

Path 3

Roll over all your money to an IRA or eligible retirement plan

You can roll over your employee contributions plus interest to any qualified account that accepts rollovers. Taxes aren't withheld when you roll over funds.

Path 4

Roll over a portion of your money to an IRA or eligible retirement plan

You can ask DRS to roll over a specific portion of your employee contributions plus interest to any qualified account that accepts rollovers and have the remainder paid directly to you as described in Path 2. The portion you receive will be subject to the IRS withholding(s).

Tax tip

You might want to talk with a professional tax advisor before making a decision about withdrawing your contributions.

If I choose to roll over funds, what do I need to know?

You can choose a direct rollover of all or any portion of your payment. In a direct rollover, the distribution is transferred directly from DRS to a traditional IRA or another eligible retirement plan that accepts rollovers. It is your responsibility to confirm whether your chosen institution will accept rollover funds.

If you roll over your funds into a traditional IRA or eligible retirement plan, the portion of your payment that is rolled over won't be taxed until you later take it out. If you roll over into a Roth IRA, the rules could be different. Check with the IRS to learn how this choice will impact you.

Taxes on withdrawals

Only federal taxes are withheld from cash withdrawals. Any tax-deferred contributions and interest paid directly to you will automatically have 20% income tax withheld.

The payment is taxed in the year you receive it unless you roll it over within 60 days into a traditional IRA or another plan that accepts rollovers. No taxes will be withheld on the portion you roll over until you later take it out.

The IRS requires that any after-tax funds be tracked separately within your account. This ensures you aren't taxed again when you withdraw them from the IRA or retirement plan.

We encourage you to talk with a professional tax advisor before making a choice. More information about taxes on retirement contributions is available on the IRS website at www.irs.gov or by calling 800-TAX-FORMS.

Sixty-day rollover option

Your cash withdrawal is taxed in the year you receive it. You have 60 days from the date the check was received to deposit the funds into a traditional IRA or another eligible plan that accepts rollovers. Doing so could allow you to recover the taxes that were withheld and avoid the 10% early withdrawal penalty when you file your annual taxes with the IRS.

Definitions

Transfer or roll over

A way to send your withdrawal to an IRA or another eligible retirement plan that accepts rollovers.

Individual Retirement Account

Known as an IRA, this can be composed of individual retirement accounts or annuities. An IRA can be classified as traditional or Roth.

Tax-deferred contributions

Contributions deducted from your paycheck that haven't been taxed.

After-tax contributions

Contributions deducted from your paycheck that have been taxed.

You can deposit up to 100% of your withdrawal into an eligible account, including an amount equal to the 20% already withheld for taxes. However, you will need to find other funds to replace the amount already withheld for taxes (see example below).

Contact your tax advisor to learn more about this option.

Example

Sixty-day rollover

If you have $10,000 that's tax deferred paid to you, you will receive $8,000 and $2,000 will be sent to the IRS as income tax withholding.

Within 60 days of receiving the $8,000, you can roll over the entire $10,000 into a traditional IRA or eligible retirement plan. To do this, you deposit $8,000 and find $2,000 from other sources (for example, your savings or a loan). So when you file your income tax return, you might receive a refund of the $2,000 withheld.

The entire amount of your deposit into the eligible account isn't taxed until you later take it out. For example, if you roll over only $7,000, the $3,000 you didn't roll over is taxed in the year it was withheld.

If I return to public service, can I restore withdrawn service credit?

Yes, but payment deadlines do apply and can affect the cost. If you return to membership in Washington state, you have the right to recover your previously withdrawn service credit.

To learn more, read the DRS publication Recovery of Withdrawn or Optional Service Credit for Plan 1 or Plan 2, available at www.drs.wa.gov.

I want to withdraw my contributions. What should I do now?

Follow the steps below.

- 1 Fully separate from DRS-covered employment in the system (such as PERS) you plan to withdraw from. You can't withdraw from a system you still work in or are on a leave of absence from.
- 2 Fill in and have notarized the Request for Refund of Retirement Contributions form at the end of this publication.
- 3 Send the completed form to DRS at the address listed on the top right of the form. If your form is incomplete or not notarized, you'll be asked to fill it out again.
- 4 DRS will process your request. This step can take up to 90 days from the date your employment ended. Your payment cannot be mailed to you until your employer sends DRS your separation information. That usually occurs about the time you receive your final paycheck.
- 5 DRS sends any portion of a cash withdrawal to you and any portion of a rollover to your chosen financial institution.
- 6 It's important to keep your address up to date with DRS. We will send you a 1099-R form in January of the following year.

Instructions

Withdrawal Options: Choose only one of the withdrawal options in the box below. To read more about your options, review the previous pages in this booklet.

If you withdraw tax-deferred contributions and interest and do not roll the funds into a qualified pension plan, DRS withholds 20% for income tax. If you are younger than 59½ when you cash out tax-deferred contributions, the IRS could require you to pay an additional 10% for withdrawing early.

Consult a tax advisor for more information.

Withdrawal Options

Choose only one of the options in this box.

Roll Over 100% of Eligible Funds: I choose to transfer ALL of my contributions and interest to the account I name on the back of this form.

Roll Over Designated Portion of Eligible Funds: I choose to transfer $_____ of my tax-deferred contributions and interest and/or $_____ of my after-tax contributions to the account I name on the back of this form. Pay the remaining balance, minus the 20% IRS tax withholding (if applicable), directly to me. The amount sent to me will include any required minimum distribution amount.

Cash Payment: I choose to have my contributions and interest paid directly to me, minus the 20% IRS tax withholding for tax-deferred contributions. (If you pick a cash payment, don't fill in the Financial Institution section on the back of this form because we'll mail you a check to the address you provide above.)

Waiver of 30-Day Notice Period

The IRS requires us to give you 30 days from the date of notarization to review the options outlined in this document. If you don't want to wait 30 days and would like DRS to proceed with your withdrawal, check the box below.

I waive my right to have 30 days to review the withdrawal options.

Please complete the other side of this form as well.

Instructions

Financial Institution: As the member, you are responsible for making sure that the financial institution you name will accept the funds. DRS doesn't confirm whether the funds will be accepted before transferring them. If your chosen financial institution rejects the funds, the distribution of your funds could be delayed.
